- How to choose radio equipment to buy.
- Emergency preparedness radio communications.
- Club activities.
- Learn about other (non voice) types of radio communications,

It is very common during disasters and wide spread emergency's to lose some or all normal communications. Wireless systems quickly become overwhelmed as well as hard-line services which means calls aren't going through. Emergency managers often rely on amateur radio operators to set up communication nets using their skills and equipment to maintain critical communications to our communities. Learn how you can be a part of this important and fun hobby!

Bring your ham radio stuff to sell, and bring a friend that's interested in radio.
